

National Trust

Butterfly spotter sheet

Did you know that just like bees, butterflies help flowers and plants to grow? They're called pollinators. See how many different kinds of butterfly you can spot – there are so many unique patterns on the wings of these delicate creatures. Be on the lookout because sometimes they can flit past very quickly. You might be able to see one or two resting on flowers.

Comma

Ringlet

Peacock

Painted Lady

Red Admiral

Common Blue

Meadow Brown

Small Tortoiseshell

Gatekeeper

